Protect Clean Air

Utilities and customers agreed in 2023 to phase out new natural gas installations gradually. They chose to encourage cleaner, cheaper, renewable sources for home energy. These steps forward would go backwards if I-2066 passes.

Initiative 2066 would stop our progress away from fossil fuels.

Homes using natural gas

- Have high indoor air pollution
- Cause illness from breathing harmful toxins.

Natural gas use

- Generates methane, a major greenhouse gas
- Will cause energy bills, especially for many low-income households, to rise

Current legislation gradually phases out new natural gas installations. Keep it in place to protect health and the environment.

Keep the Capital Gains Tax to keep funding our schools

Washington's tax code is upside down. The rich pay less and the poor pay more.

With the capital gains tax, a few wealthy people chip in to help our children.

The tax is used to fund early childhood education and schools.

If I-2109 passes, we lose this funding for education.

The capital gains tax is used exclusively for early childhood education and schools. It makes an investment in our future.

This tax does NOT apply to:

- any retirement accounts, including IRAs
- any real estate
- small family businesses
- farms

The tax affects fewer than 4,000 of the wealthiest people in Washington (nearly 90% of them live in King County).

Save our landmark climate bill: the Climate Commitment Act (CCA)

CCA raises billions from major climate polluters, provides a path to reduce their pollution, and funds a clean and healthy future for all.

Initiative 2117 will be on Washington's November 2024 ballot.

It will destroy the CCA if it passes.

Keep our Climate Commitment Act in place:

Save the Climate Commitment Act. It funds projects to restore our environment and quality of life.

- Reduce wildfire risks
- Electrify school buses, ferries, and terminals
- Improve bike, pedestrian, & school zone safety
- Help salmon recovery
- Fund sustainability on farms & ranches

The current plan keeps people in their homes with:

- home modifications
- medical equipment
- meal delivery
- home health care aide
- temporary relief for family caregivers

The current plan would be out of money quickly if I-2124 passes because contributions to the plan would be optional.

To keep long term care support

- Don't throw 3.9 million Washingtonians back into the expensive private market for long-term care support.
- Keep elderly people in their homes. Support family caregivers.
- I-2124 will increase costs on women and working families.
